

Dear City Lights Customer,

Thank you for coming to shop on Sunday.

We promised to be open today, and we promised to have books available. Every media announced Marc Emery, the proprietor, would be open on Sunday.

Our lawyer however, informed us that the courts would throw the book at us, probably a $10,000 fine.

As the proprietor of City Lights, I am willing to go to jail for a month or so for last weeks charge of opening on Sunday, if the judge gives me an option of a fine or jail. But a $10,000 fine for this Sunday would mean all (3) our full-time staff would be laid-off for at least one year, and could in fact, lead to City Lights being closed down.

So, in order to make good my committment as reported in the media, CITY LIGHTS will give FREE (which is legal) 1 or 2 books (up to a value of $5) to the first 200 customers on Sunday.

It's either that, or I take your money, and hand it over, and $10,000 more, to David Peterson.

And frankly, I'd rather reward CITY LIGHT's loyal customers, who have kept us in business for the last 12 years, rather than reward David Peterson and his government, who want to run us out of business.

CITY LIGHTS IS OPEN TODAY AS PROMISED. We're violating the spirit of the law, but not the letter of the law. So we'll still be in business to serve you tomorrow.

Incidentally, Freedom Party Vice-President Lloyd Walker is inside beside a donation box for FREEDOM PARTY's campaign of free choice on Sunday. As you know, Freedom Party has actively fought against Sunday closings and any donation you would like to give will go directly to that cause. All contributions are tax-creditable. (CITY LIGHTS cannot legally accept any of this money, so it's definitely a donation to the Sunday Opening campaign).

You are, however, under no obligation. CITY LIGHTS appreciates you just being here and we're happy to show our gratitude.

ENJOY!

MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A FREER NEW YEAR
